

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

Not content with appropriating Nevada silver and Nevada productions generally, California is taking all the credit in the Eastern States for the excellence of Nevada's wool product, which is proving to be as good as any grown in the world. It has been the custom heretofore to ship it all to San Francisco, from whence it goes to Boston and Philadelphia labeled "California clip" and is so put upon the market. It works something like the coast delegations to a national convention. They all are swallowed by the California contingent if they will stand it. Nevada has many advantages not possessed by California and she should not allow herself to be completely suppressed. It is not considered good form for the candle to be always covered by the bush.

A WASHINGTON City dispatch of the 11th inst says the Geological Survey has at last mapped out the work which it will perform the coming summer in regard to the investigation of what can be accomplished by irrigation of the vast amount of arid lands of the West. Major Powell will survey a few representative localities. The Truckee river is one. The storage capacity of the points which furnishes the water for the Truckee will be examined and surveyed, and reservoirs constructed; also the ditches and canals for the distribution of the waters will also be surveyed. This will show what land can be irrigated on the Truckee when the water is stored. The cost of the works will also be estimated. This will enable parties desiring to reclaim the land to know in advance exactly what they can do. Major Powell said that his department will also furnish a Board of Engineers on the Carson and its tributaries. Surveys will be inaugurated in the San Joaquin Valley and other points in California, and also along the Snake river in Idaho.

MURDER is getting to be emotional insanity, theft and larceny are softened into kleptomania, and now drunkenness by the same genesis has come out as dipsomania. We next expect to hear of office holding and office seeking as a zymotic complaint of some kind, and in thinking it over we believe we did hear it said that there were some gentlemen at Sacramento last winter who said they were there for their health, and others who were constantly calling for "more medicine." However, about drunkenness there are sentimental physicians, for want of something else to do, who are filling the pages of magazines with disquisitions on the subject at so many dollars a page, in which dipsomania and drunkenness are recognized as a "disease," and the victim of the habit is a "sick man," liable to severe relapses, and to be treated accordingly. A curious phase of the "disease," however, is that while it attacks men in every station of life, women are remarkably free from its ravages, except those of the abandoned class. This fantastic peculiarity of the malady should receive due investigation at the hands of the "eminent" individuals who with a little book learning and great facility in composition imagine themselves to be scientists, acclimatists, psychologists or some other "ologists."

Stronghold Captured.
LOUISVILLE, April 11.—A posse under United States Deputy Marshal Warren and Revenue Agent Brown has captured a moonshiners' stronghold on Carr's creek, near Hindman, Kentucky. The leaders of the outlaws had been warned, and made their escape. Among them were two Sloans and two Adams, who were in the party by which Deputy Marshal Wiseman was waylaid and murdered. Only five men were captured and sent to Prestonburg as prisoners. The illicit distilleries in the neighborhood, five in number, were destroyed.

Federal Appointments.
WASHINGTON, April 12.—The President has made the following appointments: Lyman E. Knapp of Middlebury, Vermont, Governor of Alaska; Thomas M. Reed, Jr., of Washington Territory, Register of the Land Office at Seattle.

Died From Morphine.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 12.—Frank Ringo, a ball-player, who took morphine last night, died this morning.

Abandoned at Sea.

QUEENSTOWN, April 12.—The steamship City of Chester, from New York, reported having passed on April 8th the damaged steamer Denmark, from Copenhagen for New York, waterlogged and abandoned in mid-ocean. She was formerly a Belgian steamer under the name of Jan Breydel, and of 2,200 tons.

New York, April 12.—The news of the abandonment in mid-ocean of the steamer Denmark was received here by a cable to the Maritime Exchange. She is said to have 650 passengers on board, mostly Scandinavians.

Funch, Eyde & Co., the agents of the company here, say they place no reliance in the dispatch, but have cabled the agents in London and Copenhagen for further information.

The greatest excitement prevails in shipping circles over the loss of the Denmark. Thingvall line is probably the largest carrying immigrant line that plies between this port and Europe. The Denmark had on board when she left Christiansand for New York on the 26th of March 650 passengers, presumably all immigrants. Including the vessel's captain, R. M. Kundsén, the crew numbered forty men. The offices of the agents of the steamer, Funch, Eyde & Co., No. 27 South William street, has been thronged with people all the morning, anxiously inquiring for later news of the vessel. Eyde, of the firm, does not credit the report. He has cabled his London agents and sought by wire for further particulars from the Copenhagen branch of the firm.

The news spread rapidly down to town, and among the first callers at the office was Maurice Stover, a young farmer from somewhere in Massachusetts, who got here last night to await the arrival of the steamer, in which his brother and sweetheart had taken passage. His grief was uncontrollable when Eyde said that no contradictory dispatch had been received at noon.

The Denmark was formerly the freight steamer Jan Rydel of the White Cross Line. Last Fall Funch, Eyde & Co., who are also agents of the latter line, had the vessel put in condition for passenger traffic, re-christened her the Denmark, and transferred her to the Thingvall fleet. This was the vessel's first trip from the other side under her new colors. The agent of the Thingvall Line this afternoon said: "We have a cablegram to the effect that the Denmark left Christiansand on March 26th, on her first voyage under the new flag and men. She had been completely rebuilt, and it was thought by all that she was the best of her fleet. There were on board at the time of her departure at least 710 people. Of these, 650 were passengers. To manage and look after the comfort of this large number, there must have been at least 60 in the crew, and probably the number may have reached 100 or perhaps 125. Therefore to be accounted for are the lives of from 710 to 715 people. The Denmark was commanded by Captain Knudsen, an old sea-faring man, who is not a man to abandon his ship to the mercy of the waves when there is one chance in even a thousand of getting her into port. She may have been disabled, but we are very nearly certain that she has not been abandoned. Even if the Denmark had been abandoned, she had sufficient means to accommodate all the passengers on board if not the crew. There were a great number of life-boats, enough for a greater passenger list, and several new life-boats of the latest pattern and improvements, which could accommodate the crew and officers, and some of the passengers if there was not room enough in the life-boats for them."

Further particulars of the sighting of the Denmark by the City of Chester have been slowly arriving since noon. The Denmark was rapidly sinking when the Chester saw her. The Chester sighted her from a distance, and, struck by the apparent absence of any life on board, she drew near and investigated, and made sure that no one was on board, laying to for several hours. The stern of the Denmark was on a level with the sea, and the bow far out of the water in the air. There were no visible signs of a collision, and no wreckage. The boats were all gone from the davits and nothing indicating haste and a panic was noticeable. Funch, Eyde & Co. expect the passenger list by the steamship Aller, due to-morrow. The Elder, which arrived this morning and reached the dock this afternoon, did not see anything of the Denmark. No answers to cables sent by Messrs. Funch, Eyde & Co. have been received at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The excitement is very intense and the agents are losing hope. The steamship Iceland of the Thingvall line, which left Copenhagen four days later than the Denmark, is due to-night and will probably bring some intelligence of the disaster.

Capture of Train Robbers.

SALT LAKE, April 11.—The four men who robbed the train at Canyon Diablo last month have been brought here by four Arizona officers, they having been captured in Southern Utah. The officers had a 300-mile chase over rivers, mountains and plains, ending in a pitched battle forcing the robbers to abandon their horses and scatter in the brush, where it took two days' search to secure them. The party left for Denver yesterday afternoon, after a six-hours' rest in this city.

The officers had a hard trip over a desolate country, and first sighted the robbers on April 1st, in Wahivee Canyon, about 100 miles east of Cannonville, in this Territory. The officers called on the men to surrender, and were answered by a volley from their six-shooters, with which they were armed. The country being heavily timbered, both parties were well protected, and a battle ensued. After about fifty shots had been exchanged, the robbers concluded it was getting too warm for them, and leaving their horses, beat a hasty retreat on foot to a country covered with a dense growth of underbrush, which made the pursuit very difficult; but the officers persisted, and soon overhauled and captured Bill Stineau, a noted desperado, and probably the leader of the gang.

Next day Charles Clark and John Smith were captured, and on April 4th James Quince was gathered in. They had now succeeded in their object, but another difficulty presented itself. To return with their prisoners over the road they had come would be no small undertaking, and after due consideration it was decided to press on to Millford, and then go to Denver by way of Salt Lake, and then take the Santa Fe for Prescott.

It is not known, even by the officers, just how much money was stolen, but that found on the men, together with what has been accounted for, amounts to over $1,000.

On the way up one of the prisoners made a full confession, so that there is not the slightest doubt as to the right parties having been captured. All of the prisoners are well educated, and Smith claims to be the son of a Baptist minister. Officer Holton says he formerly knew Stineau in New Mexico, where he traveled with a hard gang, and was generally considered tough. Their ages are: Clark 25, Quince 26, Smith 27 and Stineau about 30. They were quite jolly when first arrested, but are beginning to show signs of drooping.

Train-robbery was made a capital offense by the last Arizona Legislature, and as the court sits on May 1st they are in a fair way to reach the reward which their villainy merits. The party will arrive in Prescott on Tuesday night.

A San Francisco Interviewed.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Wm. McDonald, a San Francisco lawyer, is here on his way home from New York.

"I am pretty well acquainted with Arizona and Arizonians," he says, "and it has amused me very much to read of somebody's scheme to slice off a portion of the Territory and by tacking it onto a portion of New Mexico make a new State. It is ridiculous. Arizona is more nearly ready to become a State than the other Territory, and instead of attaching part of it to New Mexico it is probable it will carry New Mexico into statehood with it."

While in New York McDonald visited some of the large wholesale wine dealers who gave him some interesting facts about California. "One of these firms alone," he says, "disposed of over 3,000,000 gallons of California wines last season. That is the lowest rate for California, doesn't it?"

Dishonest Son of a Newswamp.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—A Port Townsend (W. T.) special to the Examiner says a United States Grand Jury has found twenty-five indictments against Wm. Harned, ex-Special Deputy Collector, eleven against Herbert Beecher, ex-Treasurer and son of the late Henry Ward Beecher, and twelve against Quincy A. Brooks, for alleged frauds against the Government. The alleged charges are overcharging vessels on entering and clearing the port, and issuing private receipts instead of government receipts. The exact amount of the shortage cannot be estimated. Brooks is claimed to be short about thirty thousand dollars. All are specifically charged with extortion, removing public records and falsifying their accounts.

Still Tied Up.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 12.—The street-line remains tied up by the strike, but the companies claim to be able to fill the strikers' places easily. The street-cars ceased to run at three o'clock. No trouble is reported so far. A car was run out of the Fourth Avenue barns this afternoon with a squad of policemen on board, but before proceeding twenty yards the strikers stopped it and ran it back into the barn, policemen and all. No arrests.

Referred to a Board.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The Secretary of the Navy has referred to a Board, consisting of Constructor Wilson, Engineer-in-Chief Melville and Captain Howison, the application of the Union Iron Works of San Francisco for an extension of the time under the contract for the construction of cruiser No. 5.

Trial Commenced.

PARIS, April 12.—The Senate met today for the trial of Boulanger, Count Dillon and Rochefort. Procureur General Quesnay de Beaupreire read a statement setting forth the grounds upon which the prosecution was based. The Senate then went into secret session. The trial was then formally begun.

Breaking Down.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Judge Allen G. Thurman and his grandson arrived here this morning, and are staying at the Ebbot House. The Judge is looking quite feeble, and needs the assistance of his grandson, as well as of his cane, in walking.

Russell Congratulated.

LONDON, April 12.—Before the Parnell Commission this morning Russell Congratulated his speech in defense of the Parnellites. He undertook to show that the money Parnell gave Byrne, which the prosecution alleged was to enable Byrne to escape, was meant by Parnell for the ordinary purposes of the National League and that Parnell did not know Byrne was in peril of arrest.

In court, Sir Charles said in conclusion, was trying the history of the Irish revolution, and he asked that a fair and generous consideration be given it. Sir Charles declared that he did not speak as an advocate of the accused members of the Commons, but for the land of his birth, and he believed in the best interests of England. The inquiry which was intended to be a course has been a blessing; it had been designed for the purpose of ruining one man, but has proved the means of his vindication.

At the conclusion Justice Hannen, in a note, congratulated Russell on the brilliancy of his speech.

Upon the conclusion of to-day's proceedings the court adjourned until April 30th.

Entire Reciprocity Not Wanted.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 12.—The Senate this morning adopted a resolution to the effect that it will not be in the interest of Canada to establish an entire reciprocity of trade with any foreign nation upon any condition that would restrict with regard to others, the entire freedom of action by this country in protecting its own industries in dealing with its own sources of revenue and in regulating its own foreign trade, or that would necessitate the adoption of duties discriminating against imports from other nations, more especially the mother country, while at the same time any measure for securing reciprocity of trade with any foreign country in such of the products of trade of the country as may be freely interchanged with advantage to both, would receive the favorable consideration of the House.

Of Interest to Union Veterans.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The Pension office to-day allowed claims to the amount of $14,000 for arrears of pension to Phillip Flood. The allowance was made for blindness contracted in the service.

A Scheme to Ruin Insane Asylums.

LANSING, Mich., April 11.—The House to-day passed the Jackson cigarette bill, which prohibits the manufacture, sale, keeping for sale, or giving away of any cigarettes or any imitation thereof, composed in whole or in part of tobacco or any substance in the form of cigarettes containing narcotic elements, or any rice paper or paper designed for cigarette wrappers.

Got to Canada.

ST. LOUANE, April 12.—Moiles Bros., with their saw mills on barges, escaped from the officers sent yesterday to capture them, and got into Canadian waters. The officers returned empty handed to-day.

Excited Sugar Market.

LONDON, April 12.—Owing to reports that the Cuban sugar crop is short and that the stock of sugar on the continent is held in a few hands, the market is excited.

An Important Discovery.
A correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle, writing from Cherry Creek, states that a butte of tin ore has been discovered in Butte Valley, about forty miles from the place mentioned. The vein is 60 to 100 feet wide, and assays as high as 20 per cent. pure tin. The vein has been examined by expert tin miners from Cornwall, and they pronounced exceedingly valuable. Nearly all the merchants, mechanics and tradesmen of Cherry Creek have left for the new mines, and great excitement prevails.

UTAH APPOINTMENTS.

President Harrison the Friend of the People.

The Salt Lake Tribune says: "Unofficial news from Washington indicates that there will nothing be done regarding Utah appointments for ten days or possibly two weeks, and while so much is not asserted, the implication is that two or three programmes, which were nearly incubated, were arrested by the direct interference of the President. One letter says: 'The President himself evidently has taken a hand in the affairs of Utah. I am daily more and more impressed with the fact that Harrison is President, and I believe this will more clearly appear as time goes on. Try and impress on our friends that that we have a friend (Utah's friend) in the President and his advisers; that time and patience will accomplish everything, but that nothing can be hastened at present.' We suspect the truth is that the conflicting interests of Utah candidates has led the authorities to conclude that a little delay may be a good thing."

A Birth on the Fly.

The Elko Independent of Tuesday says: "A woman on her way from Colorado to California was a passenger on train No. 2 this morning, Fred Benson, conductor. After leaving Wells the woman was taken suddenly ill and was put to bed, and before reaching this place she was delivered of a fine boy, which she immediately named 'Fred Benson' in honor of the gentlemanly conductor who rendered every assistance in his power, and demonstrated that he is ever ready to administer to the comfort of his passengers." That is why the railroad boys call him Dr. Benson now.

In Town and Hamlet.

The seeds of intermittent and bilious remittent fever germinate and bear evil fruit. No community has altogether escaped it. In populous wards of large cities bad sewage cause it; and in their suburbs stagnant pools in sunken lots breed it. There is at once a remedy and a means of prevention. Its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is without precedent, the most potent antidote in existence to the malarial virus. Fortified with this incomparable, saving specific, miasmatic influences may be encountered with absolute impunity. Disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, begotten by miasmata-tainted water or any other cause, succumb to the beneficent corrective named, and rheumatic kidney and bladder troubles are surely removable by its use when it is given a persistent trial.

WEALTH IN WOOL.

Nevada the Best Region in America for Its Production.

The GAZETTE has frequently called attention to the rapid growth and marked success of the sheep business in Western Nevada and its value as a contributor to the commerce of Reno as a business center. It seems, from a conversation had yesterday by a reporter with John Fiesler, a wool dealer from Philadelphia, that even those best posted did not realize all of the advantages possessed by this section for wool-growing. He said that if ever the American continent came to compete with Australia in the production of fine wool, it will come from sheep raised in this basin—that is, from Nevada, Wyoming and Montana. Utah has not the grade of sheep to compete. Idaho has a fine dust that loads the fleece. California has the dust and a burr that is a great objection; it grows everywhere, apparently, and the sheep gather it up and never get rid of it. In all wool markets Australian wool is the standard. It produces the best staple and the best uniform fleece. It has mild weather for twelve months in the year and everything as near to a certainty in feed and water as the stockman ever gets it. They

Wool once a year.

Instead of twice, which gives a large staple and brings a better price. He thinks it would be greatly to the advantage of Nevada men to shear once a year instead of twice. There would be no danger of a weak spot coming in the wool, provided it did not stop growing. If the sheep get short of feed or fall sick or become half famished with thirst there is liable to be a break in the growth and a weak place in the staple, but shearing twice a year would not help that. While it is true that Nevada wool is held in the highest esteem East, it has always been credited to California, and the dealers at the Bay with the modesty for which San Francisco is proverbial have accepted it without a blush. They have shipped it East as "California wool" and dealers and manufacturers East bought it as such. The fact is that real California wool would have no more chance along side of the Nevada article than California apples or potatoes have against ours. It is indicative of the real state of affairs that the United States Government last year

FOR THE FIRST TIME

In its history threw off on Ohio and had its navy blue made from Territorial wool. In addition to quality Nevada has many other advantages which make her, beyond all doubt, the best sheep country on this continent. If she has only Montana and Wyoming to compete with in quality of production she ranks them so far in mildness of climate and certainty of wintering her stock well that there is no rival in sight. Mr. Fiesler says Philadelphia uses more wool than all the rest of the United States put together. She buys about a hundred and twenty million pounds a year, and is a better market than Boston, because she can never get enough, while the Boston warehouses are always loaded if there is a surplus anywhere. Boston is an older market, better advertised and more extensively worked, but it is not holding its own against Philadelphia, and Mr. Fiesler is here to give the Nevada men pointers for their benefit and his also. In this connection it may be worth mentioning that Mr. Fiesler states positively that PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S POSITION was radically wrong on the wool question. The United States will not be dependent on Australia for fine wool. Ohio and Nevada wools are just as good when they can get enough of them, Nevada preferred. Over three hundred million pounds of wool are grown and there is use for a hundred and twenty five million above that figure, but it cannot be grown without a tariff. Australia is too big, its climate too mild, water too plenty and feed too cheap for a country where wages are high to compete.

The Problem Solved.

No little speculation has been indulged in by the readers outside of Lundy as to the cause of Townsend's Index changing hue several times a month. A Mono county man says the paper is a true indication of the mental, moral, physical, intellectual, spiritual and stomachic condition of Lundy and the sanctum of the festive editor. The paper as it comes from the press intuitively takes on color indicative of its surroundings. If the town or office have been painted red, the Index is issued in red; if a bright yellow, it is yellow; if a brilliant blue, it is blue. Yellow is said to indicate a bilious condition, such as an overdose of "forty-rod" produces. On such occasions the subscriber with a "kick" on his hands waits till a different colored sheet is thrown out. A white Index indicates calmness, sobriety and intellectuality. A few weeks ago the first papers came out white, but before the last edition was printed the color had changed to an ugly red.

Boy Badly Broken Up.

At 3:30 this afternoon, while several boys were playing on the O. & O. turntable, Percy Leadbetter, about nine years old, and son of the groceryman of that name, was caught in such a manner as crush his left leg below the knee to a jelly, and also broke the left arm. Drs. Bergstein, Lewis and Thoms were called and dressed the mangled limbs.

A Giddy Couple.

Long Valley came near having an elopement this week, but a big brother laying in the sagebrush with a double-barreled shotgun prevented the giddy couple from carrying out their intentions. The neighbors say that they will make it yet, and, as stolen sugar is sweetest, it is fair to presume that they will.

The Part Taken by the Faculty and Students of the University.

Many students of the State University, as well as others interested in the good work, repaired to the State Agricultural grounds this forenoon and proceeded to plant a large number of the best kinds of shade trees. Those having had experience in tree planting superintended the work, and if proper care be taken of what were to-day set out, it will be but a few years before the fair grounds will be a beautifully shaded park. ABOUT STAGE TEARS.

Fanny Davenport Cries That They Are the Genuine Article.

Of course I shed real tears on the stage, writes Fanny Davenport in the Philadelphia Press. So do other actresses. But they are by no means any indication of real feeling, and do not possess the significance that tears in real life. Occasionally my sympathy with the character I am playing has been so keen that my eyes have filled with tears and I have been unable to restrain them. But this should not be so, and it is not commonly the case with me. The shedding of tears with an actress is simply a matter of art. I know two prominent actresses who can turn on the waterfalls at a moment's notice, and of course impress their audiences through the operation. Bernhardt, I know, has a habit, in her most tragic scenes, where she is sobbing until her whole form shakes convulsively, of giving people who stand in the wings and of making funny side remarks for their benefit and indulging in grotesque grimaces which would do credit to a low comedian.

For the effective simulation of grief, however, I much prefer sobs to tears. An audience can hear you sob, but it can not see you weep. On this I agree with Rachel, whom I consider the greatest tragic actress who ever trod the stage. Her sobs had a wonderful effect upon her audiences. She used to say that it had taken five years' constant study to reach perfection in this and to get the effect of the sobs which she desired. She could crescendo and diminish these demonstrations of grief with all the power of a piano virtuoso over the ivory keys.

As I have said, I am occasionally carried away through the force of my imagination, so that I am in the keenest sympathy with the sufferings of the character I portray, and am for a brief period of time, perhaps, actually the character. But, as a general thing, I am entirely mistress of myself. I do not believe it is possible for me to feel actually the same as the person whose feelings you are depicting. Take my experience in "La Tosca" for an illustration. In the fourth act I murder a man. Is it to be supposed for one moment that I have the same emotions as the woman had who actually committed the crime? How can I! I never murdered a man. Yet I believe it is perfectly possible for me, through the devices of stage art, to set clearly before an audience a picture of the tangled remorse and terror which overtakes the woman who has done the deed.

To demonstrate how absurd this theory is, that a player is actually possessed with the emotions of the character he or she is enacting, consider for a moment how it is possible for a player to appear in the same part night after night for forty weeks and be wrung with anguish for the two or three hundred times thus made necessary. To attempt this one would die of mental exhaustion before half the time. Some people say it is true that there are parts of "La Tosca" where I am so wrought upon by the dramatic situations that my hands shake and I grow cold and rigid, but this is essentially physical and not mental or emotional. I have come off the stage after one of these scenes trembling and weak, but there was no depression of spirits such as would have resulted from my passing through such emotions in life. If I had ever felt as "La Tosca" must have felt, some people at the fourth act, I should not have been able to finish the play.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE.

An English Lady Makes a Plea and Answers Some Objections.

Let no thin or woman be mistaken as to what this movement for women's suffrage really means, writes Mrs. Fawcett in the Woman's World. We none of us want to turn the world upside-down, or to convert women into men. We want women, on the contrary, above all things, to continue womanly—womanly in the highest and best sense—and to bring their true woman's influence on behalf of whatsoever things are true, honest, just, pure, lovely and of good report, to bear upon the conduct of public affairs. Some people attempt to meet the claim of women to representation by the absurdly irrelevant remark, for I can not call it an argument, that women householders ought not to vote for members of Parliament because they can not be policemen or soldiers. Some people say that women are not fit to be soldiers or policemen or soldiers. There must always be a certain division of labor between the sexes. The physical constitution of a woman fits her to perform certain duties, on which the weight of society is a high degree depends. The physical constitution of a man fits him for certain other duties, one of which is that of external defense. And there are certain other duties, which men and women must undertake jointly and in co-operation with one another, and from which the total withdrawal of one sex or the other is fraught with danger and mischief. Those who are in favor of woman's suffrage maintain that the duty of loving one's country, of understanding her interests, of endeavoring to influence public affairs by the choice of men of high character and true patriotism to serve in Parliament, is one which is incumbent on women as well as on men. There is nothing in the nature of a woman which fits her to be a policeman or a soldier; and there is nothing in the nature of a woman which unfits her to love her country and to serve her by helping to send good men to promote sound legislation in Parliament.

People sometimes talk as if fighting for one's country were the only way of serving her. Surely that is taking a very one-sided view of a nation's interests. All work well done, all service in lifting up the lives of others to a higher level, "All we have wished or hoped or dreamed of good," forms the real treasury of national greatness. I have no wish to disparage the usefulness, the necessity, of the army and the police force; but civilization owes quite as much to that great host of silent, busy workers, of whom least of all are we aware, through whose labors alone there is any thing worth preserving, as to the army and the police force for preserving it.

AN INDIAN LEGEND.

Mount Desert Island the North American

The early Indian tribes who inhabited Mount Desert Island believed, according to the Lewiston (Me.) Journal, that the Garden of Eden was situated at that spot, and according to their legends, when the white man gave the name of Eden to one part of the island, it was only coming to its own again. Strange as it may seem, the primeval father of the Maine red man was a youth with golden hair and eyes like the hazel-berry, tall and of great beauty. The Eve who came to Eden just when his loneliness was getting insupportable first appeared coming through the clouds. Her first exclamation at seeing him was the Indian for "Oh! dear."

She at once cut off his golden locks and began to weave them into a strong, growing larger as she proceeded. At a suggestion from Moncho, a god of evil designs, the man took the cord from her and bound her with it, when she ceased growing but did not stop working. The next thing she did was to bend down all, green and brown, her and gather from its golden seeds, which she made into bread, being thus the discoverer of Indian corn. The couple, after teaching their children how to raise and use this grain, were translated to the position of stars known as the sickle, whence they still watch over their earthly home.

GEORGIA DIAMONDS.

A Story of the Moonshiners and Their More Than Peculiar Ways.

A Georgia mineralogist in the Jewelers' Weekly: "The recent discovery of small diamonds on a farm near Atlanta, recalls the various occurrences which have from time to time given evidences that Hall County contains a diamond belt. You may not have heard one of the most characteristic of our stories.

"The small farmers who people the broken country west of here are densely ignorant and intensely superstitious. The little valleys are full of moonshine whisky stills, and the deputy United States marshals are kept busy routing them out and arresting their owners. The first revenue officer sent through Northeast Georgia immediately after reconstruction were Northern men. They literally fought their way through the country, and never ventured on a raid without the protection of a squad of soldiers from the Second United States Infantry, which command was at that time stationed at Ringgold barracks, Atlanta.

"The marshals met with only indifferent success at first, for they were unfamiliar with the country and the moonshiners had them at a disadvantage. When they had formed some few acquaintances among the moonshiners they were able, by the promise of liberal pay, to secure the services of skilled pilots, whose cunningly outwitted their neighbors. These pilots, and more than one man who betrayed the hiding place of a still was ambushed and shot down. Others were captured, whipped with hickory whips and so terrorized that they were glad to flee the country.

"When General Jeff. Finley was a deputy marshal he employed a pilot named Bud Davis, who was half hunter, half miner, a confirmed ne'er-do-well, and familiar with the intricate topography of the mountains. Davis guided the revenue officers for several months, and was caught and hanged for his treachery. He had betrayed came to his ears. He always went armed, and as he was not lacking in bravery he journeyed back and forth between his mountain home and Gainesville in the boldest and most open manner.

"One unlucky day he accompanied a party of the marshal's men into Haversham County, and, being not far from his home, left them to spend the night with his family. He must have been watched and followed from the moment of his departure, for he had not gone far when he was suddenly attacked from the rear. Before he could defend himself he was made a prisoner. His face paled when he recognized his captors, and he could not help shuddering when he saw the product of the rope and the proceeded to fasten it about the prisoner's neck. 'I reckon I'm gwine ter die,' said Bud, 'but ye kain't hev hit ter say that I didn't meet death like a game man.' He raised his hands as though to assist the hangmen, but instead he seized a buckskin thong fastened about his neck and drew from beneath his hunting shirt a little greasy bag, on which were some rude characters that had been written in an ink made from blackberry juice. He furnished this in the face of his captors. 'Ye air a set of blamed cowards,' he cried. 'Stand back or I'll kunjur ev'ry mother's son of ye.' The moonshiners, but a minute before so full of murderous desperation, hesitated, and Bud, with a snarl, snatched the bag, and whirling the little bag he advanced upon them. With loud cries of terror they broke and ran as from some terrible danger. When they were out of hearing Bud looked at the little bag which he had on his pistol belt and chuckling grimly continued on his way.

"He was never molested again in Haversham County, for the news that he was a 'kunjur' spread like wildfire and finally reached the ears of his friends the marshals. They questioned him about the matter and begged for a glimpse of the wonderful bag; but Bud guarded it with jealous care, contending that if he showed it to any one except to protect himself the 'kunjur' would lose its power.

"A few weeks afterward the marshal's men raided out toward Ducktown, Tenn., and Bud Davis accompanied. The party rode into an ambush and a fierce fight ensued. When the moonshiners were finally driven away it was found that the party was desperately wounded. The men gathered around him as he lay gasping for breath, and one among them, who had been really attached to the fellow, raised his head. Bud smiled feebly, and with trembling hands drew the 'kunjur bag' from his bosom. 'Take hit,' he gasped. 'Twill fetch ye good lu-u-c!' The balance of the word died away in a hoarse gurgle, and he fell back dead.

"The marshal who had been bequeathed the amulet put it in his pocket and did not find time to examine his legacy until he reached Atlanta. The bag was heavy, and he cut it open with his knife. Out fell a half dozen bright stones. They had a peculiar glint, and the marshal took them to a jeweler. He pronounced them diamonds, and they really proved to be the precious stones. The marshal had them cut, and an expert valued them at twelve hundred dollars. He intended to donate the money he had received for them to Bud's family, but when he went into the neighborhood where the pilot had lived he found that they had moved into the 'far West,' but exactly to what part he was never able to learn.

"The stones were probably found in the neighborhood, but the exact locality is not known."

"I was suffering great pain," he says, and my wrist was badly swollen; a few applications of Chamberlain's Pain Balm relieved the pain and reduced the swelling in one night, and in consequence my work and business was not interrupted, for which I am very grateful. I can recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm from personal experience." Sold by Osburn & Shoemaker.
